Love Will Find a Way

Delirious?

Look around at what you see There's an s.o.s. ringing out for me I thought I believed but I just turn away From these souls living in this hell today Tears are falling, on my face From my face Love, love will find a way to break through This love finds a way to shine through Your love, finds a way to break through, This love finds a way to kiss you. I stare in the eyes of this flesh and bone I'm a tourist here so tomorrow I go home I try to make sense of the things I've seen Between the poverty and the five star dream. Love will lead me to your feet Love wont pass me on the street Love will look me in the eye Love wont leave me here to die To your arms I'm gonna run And escape what I've become Love will find a better way, so they say Love it will break you Love it will take you Love it will break you down