Nude

Deliverance

Weightless and without form, sometimes I feel like this existen ce is trying me, failing me, a thoughtless path that's killing me slowly.

There has to be some way to crawl away from the mundane, to sta rt again, be born again, and dare to live without compromise or conform

I close my eyes, I see myself for that, what I've become, a sel fish man, a pitied man, trying to please the world and myself.

I hide in the shadows and in plain sight for all of you to see, the double, the triple, the other self's condemned to hide who I really am…

I can see it, I can see it – a chance to be all that I am I can see it, I can see it – a chance to grow and start to live again

Fly into the center of the Universe
And find the meaning behind your "self"
Watch it die, then watch it reborn
Stumble on this darkened path
The answers are there, reach in and see
Death is not the end, but a start, a chance
To live as if you were nude…

Nothing to hide, only as nude…

So here we are, the masks have been burned, a time to show our real face, this time and place, no longer hiding who we are if not only to you Like a new life born, look forward to the journey, it's not lat e, there is no fate, create our new lives and live like we were nude…

Fly into the center of the Universe
And find the meaning behind your "self"
Watch it die, then watch it reborn
Stumble on this darkened path
The answers are there, reach in and see
Death is not the end, but a start, a chance
To live as if you were nude…

Nothing to hide, only as nude…
