

Light Bends

Demon Hunter

Sing a song for the final ascent
Say a prayer for the rest of us
At the time when the suffering left
All the hope that was left in us

Fell by the wayside
Every confession made, promise laid
Down at your bedside
Guiding a broken heart through the edge of dark

When the light bends to shatter a soul
We feel the toll
It was right then you covered us all
You carried the weight in full

From a shell to the ever divine
From a spark to the fire in us
As the night and forever aligned
All the pain you defied for us

Fell by the wayside
Every confession made, promise laid
Down at your bedside
Guiding a broken heart through the edge of dark

When the light bends to shatter a soul
We feel the toll
It was right then you covered us all
You carried the weight in full

When the light bends to shatter a soul
We feel the toll
It was right then you covered us all
You carried the weight in full

When the light bends to shatter a soul
We feel the toll
It was right then you covered us all
You carried the weight in full

When the light bends to shatter a soul
We feel the toll
It was right then you covered us all
You carried the weight in full