

Reflected

Demon Hunter

We fell asleep as the tide was rising
Woke up in a world of aimless souls
Sign of the times, we fell behind
Sever the cost for a peace of mind

We found a way in a path divided
Are we forgetting the vow we used to hold?
Killing the truth to build a lie
Turning the aim to the void inside

Spent a lifetime fighting to hide the sun
Spent your last breath dying to be the one

Reflected on the water
Reflected in the skies above
Through the faces of our daughters and sons
We see with lucid hearts
Our spirits never apart

We never settle for empty closure
We know the fire will make us whole again
Killing the noise of your design
Follow the voice to the end of time

Spent a lifetime fighting to hide the sun
Spent your last breath dying to be the one

Reflected on the water
Reflected in the skies above
Through the faces of our daughters and sons
We see with lucid hearts
Our spirits never apart

We found the passage they don't see
Followed the path through the trees
We've heard the echoes of your voice
Burning a hole through the noise

Spent a lifetime fighting to hide the sun
Spent your last breath dying to be the one

Reflected on the water
Reflected in the skies above
Through the faces of our daughters and sons
We see with lucid hearts
Our spirits never apart

Reflected on the water
Reflected in the skies above
Through the faces of our daughters and sons
We see with lucid hearts
Our spirits never apart
