Hymn of Liberty

There are too many things so wrong There are too many lies And everything I do I try to be myself No one can change me, this is my only way Run out of time Run in the wind This is the place where I would like to be Try to survive without selling my soul 'Cause I won't live Eternally People say black People say white No one can guess what's the color of my life Someone says I am right someone I'm wrong Fuck yourself, leave me alone Still carry on Still singing my old song Mourning for the agony of the world In every word I say I try to be myself No one can change me, this is my only way Now wake up and hear my scream This is a hymn, a hymn of liberty Ten thousand voices sing against their destiny We'll sing it loud and loud and loud God will say: "I've got enough" Stop your sleeping now and set us free Forever run and run and run away People have to pray The world is going to fail Maybe your memories have gone Don't waste your time no more To live this life is like to fight a war I am here to live my life Step by step straight to the end Life or death will take me high Strong and never scared

I'm here alone searching for a new life

Motion for every emotion For every emotion I will live Motion for every emotion I've no emotions to forgive

Now wake up and hear my scream This is a hymn, a hymn of liberty Ten thousand voices sing against their destiny We'll sing it loud and loud and loud God will say: "I've got enough" Stop your sleeping now and set us free Forever run and run and run away People have to pray The world is going to fail

Derdian

Maybe your memories have gone Don't waste your time no more To live this life is like to fight a war I am here to live my life Step by step straight to the end Life or death will take me high Strong and never scared