

The Rose

Devendra Banhart

When I was a teardrop
I fell from your eye
All understanding
Was waving goodbye

Headshots of animal actors
Sitting in noble display
I'm picking up no vibrations
But love's just a thank you away

No way around it
We've got to go
Hiding in plain thought
I miss you so

I pay the big bucks to be told
Money just ain't worth a thing
Sitting in the fullness of silence
She aches just like a human

Walk like a flower
Don't let me go
Beautiful answer
I'll never know

Greg runs through glass door in India
It hurts to dance for a while
Wearing a perfect no fear shirt
I see them float down the Nile

Lonesome connection
What can I say
A little sweetness
Goes a long way

Listening to reggae versions
Of every Bob Marley song
I gave up giving it all up
Or looking for ground to stand on

Would you forgive me
For failing to
Even consider
Forgiving you

Is it a kind of discipline
To break my vows every night
Heavens a bloody magnolia
Ever so graceful and bright

Ever so graceful and bright

Ever so graceful and bright

A movie
Set to a song
A montage

The day is done
A movie set to a song
A montage
Big changes...