

Playing To Lose

Deviates

you can't find it, but i know you will, it hurts me & kills me to feel your hell you find comfort that you'd like to share you find you're not alone and now you like it here, i never thought I'd see today, i never thought I'd see you this way, tell me everything's gonn a be ok, i see that look in your eyes and i know you're lying, i feel th e flames
& they warm me , i feel the burn & it reminds me that my well h as run dry & I'm empty inside. too much is not enough, you've lear ned too late, when you were sure to lose, you raced to the game and now in a scene where you get happy rejected, i find a frien d
who is starved for acceptance. i never thought I'd see today, i never thought I'd see you this way, tell me everything's gonna be ok, i see that look in your eyes and i know I'm lying. running from your past, you're blind at the present and all your plan have sold you out you're looking for solutions, never looking forward, falling faster than before, i can't believe a word that's said and now i know you know you're lying to yourself your lies are hanging you, you're hanging you, stop blaming som eone else
