

The Dove and the Serpent

Devilish Impressions

W framudze smukły krzyż z diamentu płonie – na ziemi dymi się trumienny krzyż...
W błyskawicowym ścian zaklętych kole cień stoi smukły – pręży głowę wzwyż – w cień, co mu z ramion schyla się do czoła – w cień, co rękami rąk się jego chwyta i w nieme żalem, w zachwycone usta całuje smukły cień...

Witness to the mysteries of old times, resurrect lost ways anew set my eyes high upon crimson skies and burn my way right through descendants of the dark age, a repressive reign of blame time and again vile shepherds revel in their lambs shame

Sinister shades of destiny symbolic principles of the divine bitter dogs of Christ civilization's ultimate decline

Reason outweighed by the cross infested theatre of redemption whilst the buried don't lie swarm the lords of aberration cleansing storms, broken bones, a spiritual crown of thorns marionettes at work in the hands of the king of worms

Invoke me under my stars!
Love is the law, love under will.
Nor let the fools mistake love; for there are love and love.
There is the dove,
and there is the serpent.

Malarky of a kingdom above all the omnipotent and his bastard son enthroned ...weeping saviour, self-proclaimed ruler to a land beyond