

Watch You

Devin Townsend

I watch you when you're sleeping
I watch you when you're awake
I watch you when you're waving
Goodbye

I watch you
'Cause I want to

I watch you when you're leaving
I watch you when you're staying
I watch you when you're waving
Fly, fly

I watch you
'Cause I want to
I watch you
'Cause I want to

I watch you when you're leaving
I watch you when you're staying
I watch you when you're waving
Goodbye, bye

I watch you
'Cause I want to
I watch you
'Cause I want to

I watch you, I watch you, I watch you
In silence, in silence, silence, silence

See, my child I'm already home
Watching the flames come from the fire
And soon you will know
What I already know
What's in the field under the mine caves

You're the one that's watching me, watching me

Now in time what you'll find as you'll meet someone
You will know my name

Some might sever, some may never
Some may heed the even flow
Some find heaven in sevens and elevens
Some may see the heathen glow

But some might never, some may never
Some of you will never even know
