

Sorry Mom

Devon Cole

Woke up this morning and hot boxed the shower
Spilled coffee on my bed
Laid there for hours, I know
I'm the odd one out but I think I like it
Mmm
Showed up an hour late to the family reunion
I couldn't concentrate, everyone knew that I'm stoned
I'm a low-life clown and I just don't mind it

You've been so patient with me and my demons
Love me the same no matter what I've done
I know your limit and I like to push it
But you're still there for me
I, I, I, I'm

Sorry mom
I guess it wasn't just a phase after all
And now you're on my case, I'm
Sorry mom
I swear to be a better daughter, hand to God
Then again, I lie a lot
I'm sorry mom

Ashed out my cigarettes into your garden
Right on the tulip bed a fire started, oh no
Then you came back home, caught me red-handed
I swear I'll replant it (I swear!)

You've been so patient with me and my demons
Love me the same no matter what I've done
I know your limit and I like to push it
But you're still there for me
I, I, I, I'm

Sorry mom
I guess it wasn't just a phase after all
And now you're on my case, I'm
Sorry mom
I swear to be a better daughter, hand to God
Then again, I lie a lot
I'm sorry mom

I know that look you're giving me all too well
I'm disappointed in me too, can't you tell?
My apologies ain't nothing but a line
But I say it all the time
I, I, I, I'm

Sorry mom
I guess it wasn't just a phase after all
And now you're on my case, I'm
Sorry mom
I swear to be a better daughter, hand to God
Then again, I lie a lot
I'm sorry mom
