

Too Much Love

Devon Cole

You come up in conversation less and less
And that's fine by me
I sold your Ray Bans and your precious sweater vest
And made a pretty penny
Several months you've been consuming me, but I
I'm not angry like I used to be, 'cause I
Finally, know you're not the one for me at all
At all, yeah

I made peace with the memories
This ain't worth my energy
I got too much love in my bones
To be holding out for somebody that I've outgrown

I ain't bitter 'bout the times you didn't show
Baby, that's your loss
And I don't miss the way you acted like you're woke
You never walked that talk
Used to wish that we could work it out, but I
I think you're someone I can do without, and I
I don't hope that you come back around at all
So don't forget not to call, 'cause I

I made peace with the memories
This ain't worth my energy
I got too much love in my bones
To be holding out for somebody that I've outgrown

I deleted your number and blocked all your friends
To be honest, I'm stoked I won't see them again
I'm okay with leaving what we had in the past
But don't you get it twisted, my blood ain't bad
I'm just over and done saying "Maybe someday"
I know in my heart that it's better this way
I don't care what you do, who you're with, where you're at
But don't you get it twisted, my blood ain't bad

I made peace with the memories
This ain't worth my energy
I got too much love in my bones
To be holding out for somebody that I've outgrown
Too much love
Yeah, yeah
