

Father,
you know where I have been and you know what I have done they say that you see everything so you know I never hurt no one
What I have stolen won't be missed
By those who had so much, so long We'll soon be laughing about this
They will never notice it is gone
I could bend the universe
It I can only get there first
There are some foolish fresh laid plans
My fate is firmly in your hands

If you must take me
I can not go peacefully
I left someone waiting for me
I left things terribly..

They say man is just your seed
Spilled out on the thirsty earth
A simple servant of your needs from the moment of our birth
Tell me am I not your seed?
Tell me am I not your son?
Tell me have you just forgotten
All those years of devotion

Take
If you must take me
I can not go peacefully
I left things so terribly...
Undone
