

Black Cat

DI-RECT

A black cat's taking
Cover outside
As rivers slither down
The windowpane
Our tongues hidden
From the things that we fear
A faint hope
Lingering in the air
It's quietly slipping away

Could we try again
Before the windows break
Before the walls touch each other
And we are crushed in between
And we are crushed in between

I'm too scared
To look you in the eye
As black inc rivers
Paint your bloodless face
Our knees hurting
From the things to forgive
A bright moment is only short-lived
I feel that you're slipping away

Could we try again
Before the windows break
Before the walls touch eachother
And we are crushed in between

Could we try again
Before the windows break
Before the walls touch eachother
And we are crushed in between
And we are crushed in between

Before we are crushed in between

Could we try again

Could we try again
Before the windows break
Before the walls touch eachother
And we are crushed in between

Could we try again
Before the windows break
Before the walls touch eachother
And we are crushed in between
And we are crushed in between
