

Blue Skies

Diana DeGarmo

Thank you for blue skies
When my head is down you remind me to look up
And thank you for all those times
You believed when others couldn't see
Oh without you where would I be?

I wake up every morning to another crazy day I have to face
And when I'm losing my direction you're the one who points me in the right way
You always know when I'm about to fall
It's like you're standing there when I hit that wall
Because of you my eyes are open
And instead of always hoping I have faith today

So thank you for blue skies
When my head is down you remind me to look up
And thank you for all those times
You believed when others couldn't see
Oh without you where would I be?
Oh thank you
Thank you
Thank you
Oh without you where would I be?

Thank you for blue skies
When my head is down you remind me to look up
And thank you for all those times
You believed when others couldn't see
Oh without you where would I be?
