

Who Are You

Diet Cig

Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?

Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?

I put you out of my head
And I started taking baths again
My moon is in Cancer, I wish I was
A better slow dancer, so I could
Tell you all my secrets underneath the disco ball
But you never keep them all
I don't know if I'll ever trust you again
After what you did, and

Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?

I haven't talked to you in months
I thought we had both just moved on
Well, I have a question
Is this just self-preservation? So you can Keep your reputation clean with everyone involved
But you never fooled them all
I don't know if they'll ever trust you again
After what you did, and

Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?

I'm tired of empty promises
I can't take any more of this

And who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when

Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when

I'm tired of empty promises
(Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when)
I can't take any more of this
(Who are you to say "I'm sorry", when)

I'm tired of empty promises

I can't take any more of this
And who are you to say "I'm sorry", when
We both know you'd do it all over again?
