We fight and we cuss and fuss again
Whenever I'm down
But then my mood swings and I'm up again
I'm wearing you out
How many times have we broken up?
On some old, "maybe we should find something better"
I guess it's part of us growing up
Something always pulls it back together
Even if we don't last forever

It's amazing that you're still around
And it's crazy that you've been holding
It down for so long
Oh for so long

There's so many things you've been up against
Try breaking you down
But you brush off your shirt and get up again
And I don't know how, how
How many times did you call me up?
And I would push hang up got me hitting up way later
To run off or just to blow you off
Asking for a favour, I'm ashamed, oh
How can we make up?

It's amazing that you're still around
And it's so crazy to me that you've been holding
It down for so long
Oh for so long
And it's amazing (to me yeah) that you're still around
And just be patient and I'll lay you down
Just hold on
Ahhh just hold on
