The Promised Future Aeons

Dimmu Borgir

Erotic and dreamlike still in its mortal disguise
A passionate ritual in the ruined gardens theatre
The painted angels - Shadowed high above
Once they gathered to worship at the picture of me
Like a whisper where there are no words
Appears the perplexed - The statue of might
In the cradle of the next generation
A spiraling ruin - Lost in the gathering dust

...the faces you saw in the withering garden

I witnessed the flickering - made to look like stone

Quivering like little figures lost in broken flames

Never to forget again the names carved in horrid flesh

Those words drawn in water - Become our legacy of fantasies

Burn the pictures So unexpected in this strange deserted place Once opened its secrets would become the world Its attributes would continue to unfold forever

"Through the fabric of the promised future aeons I offer this suffering of my unwanted father..."

 \ldots and the stars did wander - Separated in the forbidden univer se