Keith

Discount

i read in the paper that another man made a difference today. c olumn thirteen explained the reasons they had to put him away. but i can't stand here staring all i want in dismas. tomorrow's paper, the same face, different day. regardless, everyone's so indifferent down town. the conversation's still the same appar ant run around...