

Crawling Back

Discrepancies

It isn't hard to see if you take your heart from me
You'll take my everything and I can't keep, I can't keep crawling back

And the words I say to you get mistaken as usual
We ain't vibing like we used to communication is crucial
I'm losing my mind trying to find wherever we lost touch
If we deny natures design what will it cost us
But I love your essence even through all the stressing
I find myself counting seconds until I can be in your presence
Cause our time is precious, but it puts us through the test it seems Arguing over nothing and complaining about everything
Sorry, I broke your heart that was never my intent
Just know I'd rather let you go than to ever let you down again

It isn't hard to see if you take your heart from me
You'll take my everything and I can't keep, I can't keep crawling
Something pulls me back to you
And I can't keep, I can't keep
Crawling back to you
I can't keep crawling back

Come to think I was the one who said I hate you first
I never meant it only said it just to make you hurt
Maybe we should take a break, maybe we could break the curse
Then we'll try it once again, but it only makes it worst
Where you been at who you been with who you been talking to Cause the truth hurts, but the unknown is haunting you
In a fight without the hope to win
Because we break up make up now we're at each other throats again
Sorry, I broke your heart that was never my intent
Just know I'd rather let you go than to ever let you down again
Cause there's no one on this planet that could ever take your place
But growing up is understanding that your heart is going to break
And often times the right decision is the hardest one to make

It isn't hard to see if you take your heart from me
You'll take my everything and I can't keep, I can't keep crawling
Something pulls me back to you
And I can't keep, I can't keep
Crawling back to you
I can't keep crawling back...

Too many wrongs in our relationship for us to just undo
It's like we've both been in a coma, we've been dormant and confused
Beneath the surface and the hurting, I was hoping we'd come to Cause if you're looking for my strength, you should know that it was you
So when you leave the best part of me does too

It isn't hard to see if you take your heart from me
You'll take my everything and I can't keep, I can't keep crawling
Something pulls me back to you
And I can't keep, I can't keep
Crawling back to you
I can't keep crawling back

It isn't hard to see if you take your heart from me
You'll take my everything and I can't keep, I can't keep crawling back