

Left to Drift

Discrepancies

Oh what a beautiful lie
To give a heart with no trust left inside
They say it won't hurt to try
The truth it sets and it feels like I'm dead inside

Let the waves wash over my skin
Left to drift the tide pulls me in

Oh what a colorless lie
To trust a love that left you torn inside
You feel you'll never be worthy do you
You fear there's no room left for you in their hearts

Let the waves wash over my skin
Left to drift the tide pulls me in

I tell you everything is fine
But I honestly think you're lying
Irony at it's best but trust when I say I'm trying
I'm hoping my best will do, I no longer stretch the truth
Cause I really gave her my all and I'm scared to death
There's nothing left for you
We lost our drive now it seems we're coasting
Everything shifted how did I miss it
Now I'm twisted cause she left me broken
Convicted out of suspicion how it's been for years
Guessing drowning in my sorrow didn't wash away my fears

Let the waves wash over my skin
Left to drift the tide pulls me in

Let the waves wash over my skin
Left to drift the tide pulls me in
