

Claim Me

Dismantled

Claim me
It should have been easier
Always waiting on you to believe in me

Claim me
I should have gave in to it
But instead I kept chasing a broken dream

The hands are crawling
My head is stalling
I can't remember
Why I'm stranded here

The sea of faces
Keep switching places
They're getting louder
And I hear them:

Claim me
This should of been easier
Always waiting on you to believe in me

Claim me
I should of gave in to it
But instead I kept chasing a broken dream

All is quiet now
Not a single breath of air
Not a shadow in sight
Just a cold dark haze
And I know
I deserved all this

Always feeling that I am nearer but
It's always too late

Nothing's clinging and I'm not feeling
That tomorrow will change