

Dying Light

Distinguisher

Faces pass with automatic ease
Bury my head inside the sand so I don't feel a thing
So sick of begging (on my fucking knees)
But echoes of your ghost are all that I will ever see

I walk alone, purposely blind
Cause everything you ever told me was a beautiful lie
Now my time has elapsed
My patience is very thin
And all those golden words you've said are doing me in

You come from every angle
But you all look the same
Wearing a mask of illusion
To cover up your stain
Soak me in the water
To try and wash me clean
While you hide behind a mask
So you won't be seen

I have come to the conclusion
Every action has a price
I would give anything in the fucking world
To watch you fucking die

(Betrayal of trust
A shot in the dark
The comfort you need
Will tear you apart
I tried my best to find the light)
I watched it fucking die

I watched it fucking die

Tried to find the light
Watched it fucking die

As vision fades to gray
My mind is stuck on replay
On where it all went wrong
And what you have to say

Now I think I caught a glimpse
Of who you tried to hide
Wallowing neck-deep in shit
Haunting my footsteps
My ghost at every turn
In love with your obsession
This is my lesson learned

(You can't hide from me motherfucker)
I swear to God that I'll fucking find you, bitch