

Lay Me To Rest

Distinguisher

Memories like shattered glass
Broken and turned to dust
Watching the white sands through the hourglass
I come to terms with the truth
I'm all I've ever had

Parting clouds give way
Yet all I see are black and grey

No definition
No dividing line
Stumbling through a haze
That clouds my mind
Lost in the grip of time

And if you find me please don't say a word
Leave me quiet in the garden
That I planted from the seeds
Of my own self destruction

Just let me wither

Let me wilt and let me rot into decay
Crucify me like the ones who came before
Watch my foundation give way (give way)
Spill my blood on the bathroom floor

Lay me to rest in a bed of my mistakes
But please don't say a word
Let this silence be my eulogy
When I return to the earth

Memories, they fade away
Drifting like the sand
Falling apart as you start to slip
Taken from my hands

Cut the disease
From the family tree

Lay me to rest

And when the curtain closes
I am left in the solace
At the end, when the lights go down
That I kept my promise

Memories, they fade away
Drifting like the sand
Falling apart as you start to slip
Taken from my hands

And if you find me please don't say a word
Leave me quiet in the garden
That I planted from the seeds

Of my own self destruction
