

Communication Skills

Dizzy Wright

You need a type of love that I can't give
We can't just play pretend
We try and fail again communication skills
I can't even comprehend
Didn't want to sacrifice my friend
But we can't seem to find no in communication skills

You shutting down and you open up Accountability start sounding silly when you talking about some body that don't really want to hold you down because they hold you up
Do you invite it to turn it down
Responsibility becomes the motivation watching out for low vibr ations got to pay attention to the conversations now
The small things bring me gratitude
The person I looked up to the most ruined me
I was the one that catch it so I blew it up it was the right th ing to do to me
I was young and this is when a drama start
Didn't know the family would just fall apart
Paid attention to the victim but nobody paid attention to my li ttle broken heart
Shattered in pieces my very first role model damn Instantly changed up how I see shit to keep it real I was lost fam
I couldn't follow with soul
Started having identity issues
Now I'm spinning way out of control
I was too young to pin that against you
What if I never said anything
What if it was something I never seen
What if life didn't hit me so fast
Maybe I could have took a different path
But this the trauma that was given to me
And these is the demons that's living in me
Communication became the healing for me
I finally know how it really should be Finally know

You need a type of love that I can't give
We can't just play pretend
We try and fail again communication skills
I can't even comprehend
Didn't want to sacrifice my friend
But we can't seem to find no in communication skills
