

Fluxus

Django Django

Now we realise the trouble we're in
We'll find a reason but believe you me we'll lose it again
These incredible visions begin
We see the birds take flight as the sky starts to sing

Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing
Now we begin, as the sky starts to sing

I've been sitting here lifeless for days
I'd lift my head but my feet wouldn't carry the weight
And if the cracks start to show on my face
We'll pass it off carry on like it's all just a faze
And if I stay here longer I need more time to think
The light outside flickers bright and my eyes start to blink
And now my throat runs dry but I can't seem to drink
I feel my chest turn tight as my heart starts to sink

And from the first time you made impressions on me (as my heart starts to sink)
And now these fault lines are breaking up beneath our feet (as my heart starts to sink)
And from the first time you made impressions on me (as my heart starts to sink)
And now these fault lines are breaking up beneath our feet (as my heart starts to sink)
And from the first time you made impressions on me (as my heart starts to sink)
And now these fault lines are breaking up beneath our feet (as my heart starts to sink)
And from the first time you made impressions on me (as my heart starts to sink)
And now these fault lines are breaking up beneath our feet (as my heart starts to sink)
And from the first time you made impressions on me (as my heart starts to sink)
And now these fault lines are breaking up beneath our feet (as my heart starts to sink)

Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin
Now we begin