

I was awoken from a dream last night
The climax right before morning's first light
It felt my arms were made of acolyte
It felt my legs frozen in carbonite
But I can't move 'cause I'm the sterile man
It terrifies me that there is no plan
The future breaking right on top of me
The waves are washing hope right out of me (Right out of me)

I know you
I swear I've seen your face before
Must be true
I saw it through the open door
Something new
An older me I met before
Déjà vu

Now when the vision shows itself to me
Kiss Mother Mary, yes, I close to see
Events unfolding I can't understand
And when I try, it falls right through my hands
In relaxation, lately I have found
Inside the chaos, I can hear a sound
Inside the chatter, a message for me
Unless you're quiet, you will never see (You will never see)

I know you
I swear I've seen your face before
Must be true
I saw it through the open door
Something new
An older me I met before
Déjà vu

I know you
I swear I've seen your face before (I swear I've seen your face before)
Must be true (Must be true)
I saw it through the open door (I saw it through the open door)
Something new
An older me I met before
Déjà vu

It terrifies me, it terrifies me
