

Feels Like 37

DMA's

I don't feel where you're coming from
And I don't see what you need
'Cause all I want is gone away, gone away, gone away
And all I want is you to stay, you to stay

You don't shine right, you don't shine light
When the ceiling hits the floor in front of me

And I don't feel where you're coming from
And I don't need what you need
'Cause all I want is gone away, gone away, gone away
And all I want is you to stay, you to stay

You don't shine right, it don't shine light
When the ceiling hits the floor in front of me
And then you took your time, and then you took your time
To say the things you say in honesty

'Cause all I want is gone away, gone away, gone away
And all I want is you to stay, you to stay

And it don't shine right, it don't shine light
When the ceiling hits the floor in front of me
And then you took your time, and then you took your time
To say the things you say in honesty

It feels like, it feels like
It feels like, it feels like