

The Setting Sun

Dommin

Well it's easy to love me when I'm gone
When I'm gone, when I'm gone
And you seem to only need me
When a day turns into three
And the night it seems to have no dawn

Only you seem to be immune so far, my love
But time will tell the whole truth
Only you seem to be immune so far
All I do never seems to get me far
My heart seems to lead me all wrong
All I do never seems to get me far

Well it's easy to love me when I'm gone
When I'm gone, when I'm gone
And you seem to only need me
When a week turns into three
And the night it seems to have no dawn

Is it true, the less I care the more you do
You want, when someone doesn't want you
Is it true that if I care I lose you

Well it's easy to love me when I'm gone
When I'm gone, when I'm gone
And you seem to only need me
When a month turns into three
And the night it seems to have no dawn

There's no turning back from where we are
Every push and shove has sent me far
Far from here

Well it's easy to love me when I'm gone
When I'm gone, when I'm gone
And you seem to only need me
When a year turns into three
And the night it seems to have no dawn

Our fate will come
Fear not, my love
No chase can be won
Against the setting sun