

Let's say you're a slide
Over the constant attempts to be climbed
Living uninspired
Sliding, climbing, fighting to survive
Shoot me on sight
The blood pours whole I still say I'm alright

All these things alike collide
I am the left and the right at the same time

Stand side by side
Just to see who and what you don't like Disguise the already defined line between beating someone out a nd winning the prize

Why don't you trust me?
Is it cause I don't trust you?
One way or another you're gonna do what I want this time

Because we are all things at the same time
The constant attempts for my life
What are you like?
You're right I can't be left to provide
Too much to imbibe
Intertwine
We are the left and the right at the same time
We are all things at the same time

If I remove myself
Will I survive?