Warning Labels

Doug Stone

I begged her to stay and give me one more try And she said, "It's over" and she said, "Goodbye" Now I'm at this bar, tryin' to wash away my pain But every time I hear the jukebox, the tears fall like rain

They oughta put warning labels on those sad country songs Harmful to your heart when you're left all alone And if you're drinkin' you'll start thinkin' 'bout love that we nt wrong They oughta put warning labels on those sad country songs

They warn me 'bout cigarettes, whiskey and beer No one ever warned me 'bout the music I hear I don't guess I would listen to what they said anyway But at least I'd been ready when the first sad song played

They oughta put warning labels on those sad country songs Harmful to your heart when you're left all alone And if you're drinkin' you'll start thinkin' 'bout love that we nt wrong They oughta put warning labels on those sad country songs There's nothing harder on my heart than ol' Haggard and Jones They oughta put warning labels on those sad country songs
