

Someone

Downhere

What we believe, is evident in how we live
How we respond to the needs we see
Depth of words leaves a legacy, a history
What's on our minds, is evident in what we buy
If we feel entitled to our blue sky, we come easily to justify
Turning a blind eye

The world has an eye for inconsistency
And the question posed needs answering

Is someone willing to leave the world behind
Is someone willing to take a stand, take a stand
Is someone willing to lay it on the line
Is someone willing it's time for someone who will

We all say "It's not me, not my calling it's not my dream"
I'm not comfortable with what I believe
There is risk that faith is asking for impossibilities
A world in the void, hasn't heard the news
Which now now make me bored
Jesus died to save my soul, but my response is my reward

But the world has an eye for inconsistency
And the question posed needs answering

Is someone willing to leave the world behind
Is someone willing to take a stand, take a stand
Is someone willing to lay it on the line
Is someone willing it's time for someone who will
