

Invisible

Downstait

You'll never see my face again; I'll drift away and fade into the night
You'll never hear my voice again, no whispers sliding in to make things right
Memories faded, pictures framed are dusty and deserted in the halls
The life we made, it couldn't brave the coming down and now it's all been lost

I'm only in the back of your mind now
I'm never coming back to find you

And I have become totally invisible, invisible to the truth
And I have become totally invisible, invisible just to you
And I swear that you will never see me again

You'll never touch my hand again; I'll find another place to occupy
You'll never feel my warmth again; the hole inside your heart will turn to ice
Memories faded, pictures framed are dusty and deserted in the halls
The life we made, it couldn't brave the coming down and now it's all been lost

I'm only in the back of your mind now
I'm never coming back to find you

And I have become totally invisible, invisible to the truth
And I have become totally invisible, invisible just to you
And I swear that you will never see me again

And if I had to show you everything
You wouldn't understand, you couldn't understand at all
'Cause every moment of the truth is gone
And I can't stand to know, that you were there to watch me fall

And I have become totally invisible, invisible to the truth
And I have become totally invisible, invisible just to you
And I swear that you will never see me again
