

Indecision

Draconian

Sometimes I don't know, if I should close my eyes and let my thoughts and my feelings go... so much fear in my heart is choking my freedom if only I could forget everything about you... with or without you. It's so hard understand this cruel inhuman game, where can I find the light of your love? I know how it will end up, I'll look around and you..? You won't be there... teach me to walk tell me Lord the truth and I will have the strength to go on telling you all the time how much I believe in you... How much I need and believe in You.