Beethoven's Nightmare

Dragonland

Twilight, candlelit walls
A strong crescendo
Highlights the lonely calls
From my piano

Melody, come to me
sing your silent voice
Remedy my envy
Bring me one last choice

Why, why can't you bring me to find?
To clear your sound
no wayfarer is blind

See my hands
Conducting a nightmare
The symphony of a tragedy
So great it devours me
These notes are just fantasy

Peretual dream won't let go of me
I struggle to live without the notion of a sound
that could open my mind

moonlight, make me conceive a slow sonata
Midnight, the dead will grieve to this dark cantata

The detestable dance to my score they hear my cries
Your guidance I implore

See my hands
Constructing a nightmare
the symphony of a universe
So vast it devours me
These nights are just fantasy

Celestial beam, help me to see
I struggle to live
without the notion of a sound
That could open my mind

Into a unending sorrow
A festival of horror
An orchestra of the undead

So bright my destiny was Golden future
Inside shadows amass
Nocturnal rapture

Melody, come to me
Sing your silent voice

Why can't you bring me to find?
to hear your sound

See my hands
The beauty of a melody
Is all that inspires me to write my last symphony

Perpetual dream
never lets go of me
That could (have) opened my mind
