Craving

Dreadful Shadows

I walked along a boundless passage
It collapsed above my head
A cyclone sweeps me away
And avalanches plunge

A craving for delight - no remembrance We're neither lost nor found

White walls hold me in chains The axis got out of place A child is dancing to the sound Of detonating bombs

A craving for delight - no remembrance We're neither lost nor found

A raging torrent pulls me down

And I don't attempt to hold my breath

The glass is shattering on the ground

It cuts into my skin, but no blood is pouring

A craving for delight - no remembrance We're neither lost nor found

I see the children again
It smiles
It burns