

Sentimental

Dream On, Dreamer

I can't explain how hard it is
You have my heart, but I need it back again
It got too hard but we came so far

I'm givin' in this time, open up my chest
Who woulda have guessed it'd end like this?
Alone in the dark and I can't feel anything
Like a speeding car, "Oh, I've seen this part"
Out of control, headed for the edge
Alone in the world and I can't feel anything

Something I should mention while you're here
So don't get fucking sentimental
Let's go find a better way to live
We're falling apart and I'm sorry to mention it

Here comes the pain and it pours like rain
You have my heart but can I get it back again
So show me how you're feeling
And tell me why you're leaving
I swear I said a million times
That all I wanna do is to see you fly
It got too hard but we came so far

It seems the closer that I got to this
It sent me to the edge and I came back with nothing
My greatest fear is that I'd be right here
I think I forgot how to feel and believe in anything

There's something I should mention while you're here
So don't get fucking sentimental
Let's go find a better way to live
We're falling apart and I'm sorry to mention it

We're falling apart and we fail to exist
We can't keep breathing the flames if we're not ready for this
Now we're falling through, break our heads in two
Don't keep wondering why it always ends up the same
