

Heartache Heartbreak

Drew Holcomb & The Neighbors

I haven't seen you in such a long time
You haven't called me, I guess I'm doing alright
Ain't it strange how a heartbreak changes everything
Ain't it strange how a heartbreak changes everything

Once we were lovers, you and I
We made plans till the end of the time
Ain't it strange how a heartbreak changes everything
Ain't it strange how a heartbreak changes everything

Held you like a fire and you held me just like a blanket
We let down our guards and your kiss was water in a wasteland
We were singing our song, loud and strong
But sometimes, the melody changes

There's a thousand ways to say I love you
But there's only one way to walk out the door
Ain't it strange how a heartbreak changes everything

Held you like a fire and you held me just like a blanket
We let down our guards and your kiss was water in a wasteland
We were singing our song, loud and strong
But sometimes, the melody changes

Everything changes
