

Dog Proposal

Dry Cleaning

Do you believe that hard work is what it takes to be successful?
?

I know it sounds bad, but I think it's one of the most misleading ideas emerging in the culturescape today

Hard work has very little to do with success

Open your phone and check your entrepreneurial channels

You'll see motivational pictures about working hundred hour weeks

Well, it only applies to those who are operating at a really basic level

It's not your problem

Why are you so chuffed you beat a team who were only promoted to the Premier League just recently?

We've got more courage, more mettle than you prize ponies

Our centre back bought every traveling fan a drink each at Christmas

Duvet covers, branded gilet, big puffer coat, TV channel, baby seats, slim pint glasses, home team tumblers, rubber coaster, rubber keyring, Manchester United gnome

London woman on the phone, I've just started working in London

I've joined a gym, I've joined a gym close to the office

I've joined a gym, I've joined a gym close to the office

I've joined a gym

The key is routine

Fix regular times in your schedule and stick to them

This year is the Cher year

Oh, fucking hell, okay

Okay

Okay

Dog proposal

She's written a

She's written a dog proposal

For Wilma

So you should read it