

You'll Be Detective

Duke Special

There's mystery behind his eyes And he sees things we never knew were there or cared about His suit will make you turn your head His smile will give him up and turn him to visible

Please won't you follow me no matter where I may go Cos you'll be detective and I will be the show I will be the show for you
I will be the show for you I will be the show for you

His lonely life protects his past He'd rather be pursuing other truths beside his own Who is watching who? Who knows? Perhaps this small town knows too much about us both

Please won't you follow me no matter where I may go Cos you'll
be detective and I will be the show I will be the show for you
I will be the show for you I will be the show for you