

Life On The Moon

Duncan Laurence

It's hard for a man to admit he's afraid of the dark
And the loneliness that comes along with it
I closed my eyes too many nights, by myself

I stopped believing and came up with questions like
Will I find love? Am I good enough?
I floated along and circled the world, by myself

You were the sun, my beam of light
Gave me my bright side
The other side's doomed, if there's life on the moon
It's all 'cause of you
It's all 'cause of you
Life on the moon

You took the lead with me, what did you see in me?
My cold empty heart, covered in dark
Most of the times, the ones who pass by drift away

You were the sun, my beam of light
Gave me my bright side
The other side's doomed, if there's life on the moon
It's all 'cause of you
It's all 'cause of you
Life on the moon

My point of view
You make my world so beautiful
Life on the moon
My point of view
You make my world so beautiful

You were the sun, my beam of light
Gave me my bright side
The other side's doomed, if there's life on the moon
It's all 'cause of you
It's all 'cause of you
Life on the moon
