I guess we'd hit the town you could see we were a sight we were taken up, taken down until we saw the light there's no use in denying we were pretty black and blue the expression on your face says hey man what can you do but then
no one could tell you know you wore it well

I'm pretty sure that camera tried to steal our soul Were we really so elusive were we on a roll rolling in the starlight it was everything we dreamed only later do we find it was nothing like it seemed how are we to know
we never would let go

a moment now passed some beauty it had somehow still lasts
a photograph

if you look at it closely here's what you will find a boy who loses way and a girl who would not mind would anyone have guessed we'd fall in love even more, never last

time that flew fast a strange light now cast is captured at last
