How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much

Late night wake up drunk on the sofa dead
And I got the spins
I'm surprised you still come on over
I should atone my sins
If I'll never be your supernova why would you
Let us live?
If I can't always keep my composure baby this makes no sense

And it's not fair I put you through it everyday
I blame it on my ancestors that passed away
Looking down and shaking both their heads left to right
But I still keep ignoring all the several warning signs

How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much

How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much

So much
So much

And it's not fair I put you through it everyday
I blame it on my ancestors that passed away
But I still keep ignoring all the several warning signs

How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much

How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much

So much
So much

How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much

How do you smile?
I let you down so much
You down so much
