

Undulating Carnage

Dying Fetus

Full speed bloodlust, rolling homicide
Speed bumps of humanity, their souls you deprive Unsuspecting victims hurry, hearing horror and fury
Running prey does entice, variety the spice of life
Everyone is in the crosshairs, exposed in this game
Reveling in the bloodshed, no remorse or even shame
Uncompromising hate tank, intolerable reality
Wipe away the filth, distributing agony

The crowds, they trigger
Vile need to kill
Crammed together targets
To satisfy this gods' will

Heresy to some, providence to others
Screams all behind me, calling for their mothers
Streaking through meat, blood, bones and sickly gore
Accelerating climax, never a moment felt this pure

Taking their lives in my hand, you see
Elevating my soul above mere entity
Embrace the change I make for one and all
Each one chosen by me to take the fall

Smudges of the people smeared across the windshield
Blood and oil accumulate, a spectacle of your yield
Steam, smoke and other liquids, of course there is fire
Charging through the mess, your desire

Destroyed lives that were oblivious
The deed done was more than devious
The onlooker to hide and cower
The victims, their souls devoured

Noise so loud, the overwhelming volume
Hidden inside the cab, presents the costume
Anyone will see, a vehicle has done this
Inanimate hate, removed your repulsive bliss

A blood-stained metal carcass of death
On its last leg still stealing a last breath
Survivors will charge the stalled cadaver
Seeking revenge and justice thereafter

Taking their lives in my hand you see
Elevating myself above mere entity
Embrace the change I make for one and all
Each one chosen by me to take the fall