

Prologue

Dying Passion

You make thousands of decisions every day,
most of them are unimportant, but some of them, just a few, are based on your pure natural urge to enjoy your life as best as you can.

Do you make the right decisions? What does the best choice look like?
Some of them seem right. But you can never be sure of the consequences.

If you want more, the hell with the consequences.