

Breakup Symphony

Dylan Gardner

Well I've been up all night
Tryna write these lines
'Cause they remind me of
Somebody I used to love
We used to throw it on
We'd play it all night long
As everything fades to black
I was thinking you could have it back

So take these memories and make them yours
'Cause I don't want them anymore

This is your breakup symphony
Reminding you who we used to be
So take my record and the sleeve
'Cause this is your song now
You can try hard to change the words
You can pretend it doesn't hurt
But baby I know one thing for sure
This is your song now

Well don't you heart just stop
When the needle drops
Or do you nod your head
While he's lying there in your bed
Do I cross your mind
Whenever you close your eyes
Or am I just a ghost
Of a song that you used to know

So take these memories and make them yours
'Cause I don't want them anymore

This is your breakup symphony
Reminding you who we used to be
So take my record and the sleeve
'Cause this is your song now
You can try hard to change the words
You can pretend it doesn't hurt
But baby I know one thing for sure
This is your song now

I didn't wanna let you go
Why you gotta be so cold
Now I feel a tear drop
Every time the disc jock plays it on the radio
I didn't wanna let you go
Why you gotta be so cold
Put this on repeat making you crazy
Everywhere you go

'Cause I been up all night
Tryna write these lines
'Cause they remind me of
Somebody I used to love

This is your breakup symphony

Reminding you who we used to be
So take my record and the sleeve
'Cause this is your song now
You can try hard to change the words
You can pretend it doesn't hurt
But baby I know one thing for sure
This is your song now

I didn't wanna let you go
Why you gotta be so cold
Now I feel a tear drop
Every time the disc jock plays it on the radio
I didn't wanna let you go
Why you gotta be so cold
Put this on repeat making you crazy
Everywhere you go