Let your reflection shine bright like a star
Let the world know who you really are
You have the power to choose what will be
When our true nature's unleashed then we're free

This is the first step to my last breath as a common depravity
You can go far betting it all on pure will and sheer audacity
Redo, renew, remake reality

Start the ascent, the final event, the coming of true finality
I will be true born in a new form leaving behind what's obsolete
Time to reject what is defected and to finally be complete

Let your reflection shine bright like a star
Let the world know who you really are
You have the power to choose what will be
When our true nature's unleashed then we're free
Then we're free

Welcome to new world, let it be heard you have finally come to claim
All bets are fair, devil may care, this is the way to play the game
Unbent, unbowed, you claim your destiny

Become the voice making the choice, become who you were born to be
The final advent is a life spent in your true natural state
Ready your will, shatter the still and welcome the coming of your fat

Let your reflection shine bright like a star
Let the world know who you really are
You have the power to choose what will be
When our true nature's unleashed then we're free
Yes, we're free

This is the first step to my last breath as a common depravity
You can go far betting it all on pure will and sheer audacity

Let your reflection shine bright like a star
You have the power to choose what will be
And the truth shall set you free

Let your reflection shine bright like a star
Let the world know who you really are
You have the power to choose what will be
When our true nature's unleashed then we're...

Show who you are
Let your reflection shine far like a bright burning star
You have the power to choose what will be
When our true nature's unleashed then we're free
