

The Dark Delight

Dynazty

I see darkness within your eyes
I see beauty meant to disguise
And I stare as if I'm mesmerized
Look away from the beautiful
As the wind carries me ashore
What lies beneath the surface shows
To a false ringing melody
We escape from reality
As our dreams turn into memories

In the light of the world you awake
As a saint in whatever shape you take
A change of reflection into perfection

Have my eyes ever truly seen light
Have I fallen for dark delights
Seems I've slept through an eternal night
I will never return the same
As the dream starts to fade away
I surface to the light again
This magical chemistry
Your angelical devilry
Realised my darkest fantasies

In the light of the world you awake
As a saint in whatever shape you take
A change of reflection into perfection
Behind the mask no one will see
Your dark reality
A flawed imperfection, your true reflection

In the light of the world you awake
As a saint in whatever shape you take
A change of reflection into perfection
Behind the mask no one will see
Your dark reality
A flawed imperfection, your true reflection

A change of reflection into perfection
Behind the mask at last I see
Your dark, your dark reality
A flawed imperfection, your true reflection