You killed again today She was 12 years old You killed her mother too When she bent down to help her And you killed again today He overdosed on drug He was a friend of mine I know that you don't care Except for money and power And the force to make everyone cower The system makes it's money off you Kill each other off just like they want you to Ways to survive don't involve killing your kind Poverty is colorblind The systems fault not yours or mine Kill again for more respect Kill some more to make you look tougher Kill again but look whos losing Poverty is government made Kill again for more respect Kill again to make you look tougher Kill again but look whos losing Stomping out your own fucking race Racism starts with a twisted idea Genocide starts with the squeeze of a trigger Both are easy to do Both are fucking stupid