Everybody's got their loves, to live as they will find But for me it's just ordinary day

Confided in my mind, within a certain space

I know that time is moving on

Can't help but think that you'll be gone

After all that we've been through I can't believe the time has come When I'll be coming back to you

I'm coming home, coming home Where I belong, when I get home