

Zero Hour

East West

Walking against the wind,
pushing the endless road,
where will we lay our heads?
Soothing to kiss her lips.
It's where we long to be,
Chaos and comfort are near.

We'll run together,
Facing the night.

Gripping the morning star,

Breathing a long relief,
watching the houses fade.
So now the lines are drawn,
and see the blood run cold,
what if the world stops spinning?

Don't walk away.
Nothing to say, just stay here with me,
we'll look back and laugh someday.
Don't run away,
Life's got its ways, of bringing you
down, kicking you in the teeth.

So give it all some time,
at least we have each other.
I know we'll dream.

Don't walk away.
Nothing to say, just stay here with me,
we'll look back and laugh someday.
Don't run away,
Life's got its ways, of bringing you
down, kicking you in the teeth.

So give it all some time,
at least we have each other.
I know we'll dream.